FARLOW'S FATE IN JURY'S HANDS

Most of Day is Devoted to Arguments by Attorneys for Both Sides in Arson Trial

ONE REBUTTAL WITNESS

Defendant Testifies in His Own Behalf, Denying he Had Any Part in Firing Uncle's Barn

The fate of John D. Farlow, prominent farmer of Anderson township, rested late this afternoon in the hands of the jury. Farlow has been on trial all this week in the Rush circuit court on a charge of arson.

The defendant testified on his own behalf, and denied having had a part in the firing of the barn on the Joseph Farlow farm on the night of July 16, and clung to his appeal that he had been fired upon and shot twice, after he had gone across the fields in search of the fire, trailing smoke which pointed the way.

All of the evidence in the case was concluded late Wednesday, and only one witness was used as rebuttal by the state. The arguments began this morning at 9 o'clock, with two hours allotted for each side.

Prosecutor Stevens opened the argument for the state and was followed by Sherman Davis, attorney for the state fire marshal's office. Gates Ketchum and Donald Smith pleaded for the defense, and John A. Tittsworth concluded the state's argument. The instructions of the court to the jury required 30 minutes.

Every argument presented by the attorneys was forcibly handled in their efforts to either prosecute or liberate the defendant. The court room was well filled with spectators, and opinions varied as to the verdict which would be rendered by the jury.

The defendant was the last witness on the stand before court adjourned Wednesday afternoon, and his testimony was along similar lines as outlined by Mr. Smith, his attorney, in the opening statement to the jury.

The defendant denied on direct examination that he had set fire to the barn, or that he was on the premises of Joseph Farlow any time that night, prior to the hour when he was shot. He was questioned at length about his actions throughout the day of Sunday July 16, and that night, and the following day.

His testimony included the fact that he was in company with the farm hands, Bennett and Hobart, and Ben Osterling, and that they spent considerable time attempting to repair a broken part of the separator of his threshing outfit, which was located on the Aldridge farm in that vicinity.

He told the jury that the men had to abandon their work when it became too dark, and his automobile stalled in the lane near the gate on the Aldridge farm. He said that he came back to this farm later in the night, after having accompanied Bennett to his home, and that while he was here he smelled smoke, which he said was corn cobs.

He said that he followed the general direction of the smoke, and as he followed it, he was looking at a field of wheat which was to be threshed. He said the smell of the smoke took him to the Joseph Farlow homestead, occupied by Clifford Power.

The defendant testified that he was within 75 or 100 feet of the barn, when someone fired at him, and almost immediately afterwards another shot was fired. He said that each shot was effective, and that the first struck him near his left hip, and the second around his arms, near the elbow.

When questioned as to what he did next, the defendant answered that he ran. He stated that there were only two shots fired, while the state's witnesses said that there were five shots.

The witness testified that when Dr. Lampton reached his home, and the officers were there, he told them that if they had a warrant for his

NET GAIN OF 72 IN ENROLLMENT

School Attendance Figures For First Month Compiled by County Superintendent Wagoner

TOTAL OF 3798 IN COUNTY

Enrollment Outside Rushville Shows Loss Due to Jackson Township Discontinuing Schools

A net gain of 72 children in school attendance in Rush county, this year, as compared with the first month of the school term for last year, is disclosed by figures compiled today in the office of W. E. Wagoner, county school superintendent.

Although the county schools showed a decrease in their total, which is accounted for by the fact that Jackson township is without a school this year, the total for the county is boosted by the enrollment of the Rushville city schools, as the Jackson township pupils are transferred here.

The figures given out are taken from the school records at the close of the schools for the first month. The county schools, outside of Rushville city, had enrolled at that time 2623 pupils, as compared with 2676 last year.

However, last year there were 96 pupils in the Jackson township schools, which if added to this year's county enrollment would have brought the county attendance up to 2719, or an increase of 43.

The enrollment of the Rushville city schools this year at the close of the first month was 1175, which added to the enrollment of the county schools 2623, brings the total for the county up to 3798. The total for the same period last year was 3726, or a net gain in the county of 72 for the first month.

The enrollment of the county schools by townships for the first month is as follows: Anderson 299; Center 191; Noble 192; Orange 205; Posey 279; Richland 120; Ripley 370; Rushville (outside of city) 236; Union 253; Walker 261; Washington 205.

The figures are most encouraging for the entire county and the loss noted in the schools outside of Rushville city, is not really a loss, because the pupils reside in Jackson township, but attend school in this city, and this added 100 to the enrollment this year of the city schools, but boosted the entire gain for the county by 72 pupils over last year for the first month.

CONTINUE SEARCH FOR INSANE MAN

Authorities Still Looking For Tom Kinney, Alleged Fire Bug Who Escaped Last Friday

BLAMED FOR TWO BARN FIRES

Posse Conducts Man Hunt in Vicinity of Manilla Where Farmer Drives Stranger from Barn

The search today was being continued for Tom Kinney, the alleged insane man who is suspected by authorities as being a "fire bug", and a representative from the state fire marshal's office is aiding in the local investigation to determine the cause of mysteriously burning of two barns, one Saturday night, and the other Sunday afternoon.

The alleged insane man was first reported Friday to the officers as being crazy, and he was taken into custody at the J. M. Amos farm near New Salem. After being turned over to John Humes at the county poor farm, he escaped during the night.

An alleged tramp, giving his name as Harry Hartogensie, was placed in jail late Wednesday after having been reported to be acting strangely near Rushville. He will be detained for questioning by state officials.

It is said that the state detective has learned that the escaped man from the infirmary was seen near the W. A. Norris home, in the Little Flatrock neighborhood, about an hour before his barn burned Sunday afternoon.

It is said that the alleged insane man was riding in a machine with a farmer, after having probably been given a lift from one point to another.

The barn on the Edin Ward farm, near Moscow burned mysteriously Saturday night about 8:00 o'clock, and this was being investigated also. Several farmers in that vicinity are said to have reported that a strange acting man was seen in that neighborhood.

It was learned last night from a farmer living south of Manilla that a man answering the description of the alleged insane person, was in his barn late yesterday and threatened the owner with a pitch fork, but he was finally driven out of the barn.

This man reported the affair in Manilla, but he had not read of the fact that such a man was at large, and the people in Manilla formed a posse and made a search, but could not locate him. The search was being resumed in that vicinity today and the state detective was assisting the farmers in that community in an effort to capture him.

GRAND JURORS ARE CALLED FOR MONDAY

One Day Investigation is Scheduled to Close Up Matters Pending When Session Adjourned.

TWO NEW SUITS IN COURT

The grand jury, which was expected to resume their investigations last Monday, but was compelled to wait until after the close of the criminal case in court, has been ordered to meet again Friday for a one day period, when it is expected that several matters will come before them, which were not reached when they met last week.

Two civil suits have been docketed in the circuit court, one being a suit venued here from Fayette county in which Timothy J. Connell is plaintiff and the Connersville Home Building Company, the defendant.

The other suit was filed by David E. Teal against Regena Brummer, the complaint being to foreclose a mechanic's lien.

The jury will be again pressed in to service next Tuesday, when the case of the state against Elbert Morris, charged with encouraging delinquency, will come up for trial in the juvenile court.

FINED $100 AND COSTS BY JURY

J. C. McKee, Milroy Young Man, is Found Guilty of Violating Prohibition Law in Shelbyville

WOMEN CROWD COURT ROOM

Not Satisfied With Verdict, According to Spectators, Who Describe Their Attitude

J. C. McKee, age 23 years, of Milroy, was fined $100 and costs by a jury in the city court at Shelbyville Wednesday when arraigned on a charge of violating the prohibition law. The jury, consisting of six men, deliberating only ten minutes.

According to the Shelbyville Democrat, about thirty-five women crowded the court room for the trial, and explaining the presence of the women, the Democrat continues as follows:

The women are said to have been representatives of a woman's organization of Shelbyville, which is taking up the strict enforcement of the prohibition law. The members of the jury for the trial were Harry Shelk, Harry Goodwin, Lytle Nail, Fred Stephan, Alex Stith, and Russell Fleming. That the women were not satisfied with the verdict which was returned by the jury, was indicated by the actions following the close of the case. Spectators at the trial stated that several of the women "shook their fingers in a menacing manner at one of the jurors." It is supposed that the women desired a heavier sentence for the defendant.

Chief of Police John B. Thompson and Assistant Chief Charles Goebel were the witnesses for the state and described the arrest of McKee in this city last Wednesday, while he was on his way from Indianapolis to his home in Milroy. They also told of finding liquor in the automobile.

McKee admitted on the witness stand that he had purchased the liquor and had it with him when he was arrested, but contended that he had not sold or given away any of the liquor, therefore, the charge of transporting liquor did not apply to his case. He was represented by Cheney & Tolen, attorneys. McKee paid the fine and costs in the case and was released. He is the son of W. L. McKee, prominent hardware dealer and merchant of Milroy.

STATEMENT SHOWS WAY TO AN ARREST

Mrs. Jane K. Gibson, Alleged Eye Witness of New Brunswick Double Murder, Implicates Woman

NAME IS NOT MADE PUBLIC

Certain Houses in Town Where Pastor and Choir Singer Were Killed, Are Being Guarded

By GERALD P. OVERTON
(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

New Brunswick, N. J., Oct. 26.—The despairing death cry of Mrs. Eleanor Mills, murdered with the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall on the night of Sept. 14 has led a woman who claims she saw the crime to charge a prominent New Brunswick woman with the double killing.

Mrs. Jane K. Gibson, alleged eye witness to the shooting of the pastor and the choir singer, declared today she is haunted by the dying screams of little Mrs. Mills and that she will name the woman who assisted in the killing.

Without naming publicly the guilty woman, Mrs. Gibson made her statement so as to point the way to an arrest.

"I could make an arrest now, but I intend to wait until the case is clinched," Wilbur Mott, special prosecutor in the murder case told the United Press today.

"We have a definite line to follow," Motts said. "I know of no reason why we should discredit the story told by Mrs. Jane Gibson who says she was an eye witness of the killing."

"There is a difference between an arrest and a conviction. I prefer to wait until we have clinched evidence in hand so we can go right ahead with the trial as soon as possible after the arrest is made."

The state forces have been in a state of unusual activity for the past 24 hours. Certain houses of New Brunswick are being closely guarded.

Best authorities declare the arrest which is expected to result from Mrs. Gibson's story will not come today and possibly not Friday. Prosecutor Mott, in an interview, stated he would make an arrest at the earliest possible moment.

Mrs. Gibson stated she saw the pastor and Mrs. Mills killed by a man and a woman near Phillips farm. She identified the woman and gave the man's name, saying that Mrs. Mills shrieked it out as she fell. In another version she said the woman accomplice called out the name.

Mrs. Gibson has been quoted as saying she later identified the woman but "felt sorry for her" until she recalled the death screams of Mrs. Mills.

Gunman Theory Investigated

New York, Oct. 26.—Working on the theory that New York gunmen killed the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills, police of New York have been called into the case and are watching certain suspects.

Captain Arthur A. Carey of the New York homicide bureau was to confer today with Col. Schwatrzkops of the New Jersey state police with regard to hunting down the gunmen.

The new theory is that the persons wishing the clergyman and the choir singer disposed of hired New York thugs to do the killing.

Foreign Vessels Carrying Booze Not to be Stopped for Present.

Washington, Oct. 26.—Foreign vessels carrying liquor today were assured of at least two months immunity from molestation by prohibition agents while they are in American waters.

It was estimated that it will require that much time for the United States supreme court to hand down its decision on the validity of the Daugherty ruling which in so far as it applies to foreign vessels, has been suspended pending the court decision.

MARITZA RIVER IS A SECOND RHINE

Stream is a Symbol and One of Contentment Among Bulger, Greek and Turk, Says a Bulletin

PLAIN IS OF LITTLE VALUE

Each of The Three Peoples Has Claimed the Valley as Belonging to Them on Ethnic Grounds

(By United Press)

Washington, Oct. 26—“The Maritza River, the boundary of the European territory which the victorious Turks demanded as soon as they drove the Greeks from Asia Minor, is, like the Rhine, between France and Germany, a symbol and one of contentment among Bulger, Greek and Turk,” says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society.

“Each of these three peoples has claimed the Maritza Valley as belonging to it on ethnic grounds,” continues the bulletin, “and such is the racial mix-up in Thrace and the portion of Macedonia which adjoins it, that each has at least some excuse for its claims. Thrace—and indeed all of Rumelia or Rumili—as the Turks called the portions of Europe which their swords conquered—has for five hundred years been in the anomalous condition of being Turkish territory, yet more Christian than Mohammedan, more alien than Turk. Moreover, the non-Turks—non-Mohammedans—were more intelligent and more industrious than the Moslems, a fact which has heightened the non-Turkish aspect of the country in spite of the burden of heavy taxation, persecution and massacre which the non-Turks have had placed on their shoulders.

“More or less unconsciously the Turks seem, throughout their tenure of half a millennium in Europe, to have considered themselves engaged in a military occupation. In the trade and industry of the towns and cities they did not and could not compete with the Greeks and Jews and Armenians; and in the agricultural pursuits of the country they were equally outclassed by the Bulgars and Vlachs and the occasional Greeks who are farmers.

“Many of the Turks confined their activities to the cities where they were rulers or soldiers. Those who led the lives of peasants never wholly shook off their nomadism. They were less efficient than their despised Christian neighbors, a fact which led to many a pillaging and massacring expedition; for the Moslems, however humble their station, were armed, while the Christians were not.

“Eastern Thrace between the Straits and the Maritza River is of little value agriculturally. It is an unattractive, dreary, monotonous plain with here and there swampy depressions. Large arenas of the territory are unfilled and in summer they give the country the appearance of a desert. When the Bulgarians finally controlled the region after the Balkan war of 1912-13, trekked to Asia Minor; and under the Greek control of the past few years that movement has continued. As a result the Thrace of today is even more strikingly non-Turkish than in the past.

“On the Maritza and in Thrace, barely 25 miles from the present Bulgarian border, is Adrianople, second city of old European Turkey, and a strong sentimental reason for the Turk's desire once more to possess Thrace. Thracian land was the first in Europe to fall under Turkish sway and while Constantinople still remained Byzantine, Adrianople was the Ottoman capital. From there they crushed the Serbians, and finally, in 1453, seized the great city on the Straits. There though in ruins is the first European palace of the Sultans and the grave of the first Sultan, Murad.

“Formerly, Adrianople was a thriving center of trade. But as the European portion of the Ottoman Empire dwindled, and Bucharest, Athens, Belgrade and Sofia, released from Turkish control, grew from dingy mud villages to bustling towns Adrianople lost ground. The city still contains about 50,000 inhabitants, however, with the Greeks, Bulgars, Jews and other non-Moslem peoples greatly outnumbering the Moslems.”

FATE OF EUROPE IS HANGING ON ELECTION

Political Situation in Great Britain Enters Into Deliberations of U. S. Government

TO SHOW PEOPLE'S ATTITUDE

(By United Press)

Washington, Oct. 26—The fate of Europe now largely hangs on the political situation in Great Britain where Lloyd George has been succeeded by the Bonar Law cabinet, highly authoritative British circles here today believed.

The political situation in Britain is one of the many important factors entering into the deliberations now going on to determine what practicable move, if any, the United States can make to relieve the plight of Europe.

Whether the financial crash in Europe, which is the big fear now of statesmen and diplomats of all the great powers, will come soon, depends to a great extent on the outcome of the British internal situation, it is believed by these observers.

These quarters believe that the minds of most of the voters of Great Britain are now tending towards a desire that England pull out of European affairs so far as full and active participation is concerned—an attitude, it is said, similar to that which was evidenced by the American voters in the selections which brought the Harding administration into power. It is not certain, however, that the wishes of British voters on this question will be plainly shown.

Great Power Given Congress.

The Constitution gives congress power to raise and support armies. Power to support an army includes everything connected with arming, clothing, equipping, mobilizing, transporting and feeding it.

Life Savers

The little life savers, Christmas Seals, are being distributed throughout the state by the Indiana Tuberculosis association, which brings attention to the fact that we as citizens are again facing the responsibility of financing the campaign that is most fruiting in the salvaging of human life.

The battle against one of the most dreaded of all diseases is gaining ground, but to falter now in the assault would be to undo all of the valiant battles and signal victories of the past few years. Though the Seals will not go on sale for another month, it is well that all people remember that this is an opportunity for service to those in distress that can not be shunted aside with a clear conscience—it must be met squarely.

The ground that has been gained in the last few years in Indiana should be a stimulant to greater efforts. Whereas 3,980 Hoosiers died from tuberculosis in 1917, there were but 2,712 deaths from the disease throughout the state last year, with a population materially increased over 1917.

For every 100,000 persons in Indiana there were 137.7 deaths from tuberculosis in 1917; 136.3 in 1918; 110.9 in 1919; 107.7 in 1920 and 92.8 in 1921. The saving of lives annually in 1921 over 1917 as 1,268, according to the state association's figures, compiled from state health board sources.

Figures made public by the Indiana association showed that the death rate from tuberculosis in the United States Registration Area has been cut from over 200 per 100,000 population in 1909 to about 100 per 100,000 in 1921. Since 1904, the year in which the educational campaign to prevent and stamp out this disease was started by the National Tuberculosis Association, the death rate has been cut in half, the statistics showed. Had the 1904 death rate prevailed in 1921 more than 80,000 additional Americans would have died last year.

Analysis of deaths from tuberculosis shows that the most productive people, those between 15 and 44 years of age, are most liable to death from the dreaded "white plague."

Murray A. Auerbach, executive secretary of the Indiana association, points out that "sixty percent of all tuberculosis deaths in America occur among those from 15 to 44 years of age," and that "about 7 percent of all deaths from tuberculosis are of children under 15 years old."

Mr. Auerbach said one death in every twelve is caused by tuberculosis and that only one cause of death—organic diseases of the heart—takes more lives than tuberculosis in Indiana.

Red Cross Roll Call
Heard World Around

The Annual Roll Call of the American Red Cross for registration of the membership for 1923 will begin on Armistice Day, November 11, and close on Thanksgiving Day, November 30. The ground work for this stupendous task of re-enrolling the membership throughout the world has been laid in a plan for the first complete and comprehensive system of registration of the Red Cross membership in all its 3,300 active chapters at home and abroad.

An important feature of the round-the-world Roll Call campaign will be a universal effort to re-enlist the service of war-time Red Cross workers in the peace program by their participation in the Roll Call. In this way the vast army of volunteers will once more affiliate with the work of the Red Cross in its manifold phases. Cooperation also has been assured by Government and private maritime interests in a deep-sea Roll Call that is designed to reach every member or potential member in every part of the world who may be en voyage or temporarily in any port.

W. O. FEUDNER

At

The Daily Republican

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)

New York Oct 26—Several months ago this column announced that the major league ball players were forming a union to secure a more equitable form of contract with the club owners and to obtain a representation on the national advisory council.

At that time all the high officials of baseball ridiculed the reports in public statements, saying that the players would not be foolish enough to shoot at the well known goose.

During the fall meeting of the magnates in Chicago, they looked upon the reports more seriously, however, and they discussed the subject at length.

Shortly after the meeting, reports began to spread that Raymond J. Cannon the Milwaukee attorney who defended several members of the "Black Sox" and who was retained by some of the players to form the organization, was going to use the union to force the "Black Sox" back into baseball. Other stories were circulated that the players were going to call a general strike next spring for increased salaries.

Perhaps the club owners had nothing to do with the circulation of these reports, but it seemed rather coincidental that they all started after the meeting of the magnates.

Cannon denies that the players have ever considered a general strike or an organized effort to boost salaries. Many of the leaders in the movement are satisfied with the money they are drawing at the present time, but they want a contract that will guarantee them justice when they start to slip.

The "ten day" clause in the existing form of contract between the players and the club owners has always been a subject of dissatisfaction tion to the players. In effect it is no contract at all, because the players have no recourse outside of an appeal to Commissioner Landis.

Here again the players object to the personnel of the national advisory commission, which deprives them of representation or a voice in settling arguments which concern only the players and the club owner.

So far Commissioner Landis has wisely held aloof from salary arguments, but he will be forced into the controversies eventually and the presence of a player on the board would not make his task any more difficult.

Cannon claims that he was retained only to get the money coming to several of the "Black Sox" and that he never entertained the notion of getting their jobs back.

In spite of the general sentiment against them, most of the fair minded fans agreed that Comiskey had no legal or moral right to withhold the money that was coming to the wayward players under the contracts which he had signed.

Names of the players interested in the organization of the union and the players who have signed for membership have not been made public and it will be a surprise when they are published. The organization will not lack dignity when the membership is made known.

Propaganda coming from rather unknown sources is being directed against Cannon for no just reason. He is a young attorney who fought for his education and is now fighting to get ahead of his profession. He accepted a retainer with the "Black Sox" because he felt they had a just case and he should not be condemned for fighting for his clients.

Two Other Games Hold Interest.
Notre Dame and Georgia, and Indiana Tackles Michigan Aggies

By HEZE CLARK
(Written for United Press)

Indianapolis, Oct. 26—While there are many important games scheduled to be played this week by the Hoosier college teams, no game is attracting more attention than the Butler-Wabash affair Saturday at Indianapolis. Wabash, a powerful team, coached by Pete Vaughn, early in the year did not consider Butler seriously but since Butler defeated Illinois University 10 to 7 and has won four other games the "Little Giants" know only too well that the Indianapolis team is a worthy opponent. Wabash has not met and defeated a Big Ten conference team but Coach Vaughn's athletes have found little trouble in winning from all opponents by safe scores.

Two other games played by Indiana college teams in other states Saturday are attracting national attention. Notre Dame will meet Georgia Tech at Atlanta. The game is the big event in southern football and Coach Rockne's griders will have a real test if they "bring home the bacon." Purdue will play Iowa at Iowa City. Iowa defeated Yale and is regarded as one of the strongest in the Big Ten conference.

Indiana University on Saturday is meeting a far weaker team than it opposed this year. Indiana will play Michigan Aggies at Bloomington. The Aggies two weeks ago were defeated by Wabash 26 to 0.

At Richmond, Earlham will play Hanover college. Hanover will give the Quakers a good battle. Hanover has a strong team this year.

Saturday is home coming day for the alumni at DePauw University. The Tigers will try to claw Valparaiso University at Greencastle. Valparaiso is some what of an unknown aggregation this year.

It is home coming day also at Franklin on Friday, Oct. 27. The Baptists will meet Rose Poly.

New York—All kinds of barnstorming by major league players ought to be stopped in the opinion of Col. Til Huston, part owner of the New York Yanks. "The players are abusing the privilege and it is against the best interests of the game," he said.

New York—San Francisco, Los Angeles, Pasadena, San Diego, Fresno, San Antonio, Jacksonville, Palm Beach, St. Augustine and Daytona have invited the New York Giants to train in their midst next spring. The club has made no selection but probably will go to California.

Iowa City, Iowa—Invitation from the University of Southern California to play an intercollegiate game in 1923 will probably have to be declined by Iowa because of the stand of the western conference against long trips and intercollegiate games.

Boston—Asa Long, 18 year old school boy of Toledo, Ohio, won the checker championship of the United States by defeating Alfred Jordon, world famous checker player in the final play of the tournament here.

Northwestern

Football insurance is being tried out at Northwestern. A blanket policy covers every man on the squad. At the present time the Purple Athletic department is being compensated for five broken noses and many minor bruises.

Illinois

Illinois has definitely decided not to protest the safety which gave Iowa a one point win Saturday. The team is getting set for the battle with Michigan.

Iowa

Every man on the team had a chance to show what he could do in practice. Radical shifts in both line and back field marked the scrimmage. Coaches were evidently looking for some yet undiscovered ground gaining combination.

Indiana

Despite two defeats in conference games the inexperienced Indiana team drove into the scrimmage today intent upon winning the remaining games of the season—and looking toward next year.

Michigan

Stiff scrimmage and a search by coaches to find a man for tackle to take the place of the veteran Vandervoort marked the day's work.

Purdue

Coach Jimmy Phelan is planning for next year. Sixteen members of the varsity were dropped today to make way for an equal number of freshmen who will work the team for the remainder of the season.

Ohio

A snappy scrimmage posed good for Minnesota state Saturday. The wing positions are worrying the coaches.

Minnesota

TWO SOURCES TO RAISE TAXATION

Revenue For Public Use Gets Money
From Local Taxes and From Tariff Imports

NO TARIFF, HIGHER TAXES

Absurdity of Charge That Protective Tariff Taxes America's Breakfast Table

Washington, Oct. 26—Public revenue must be raised from one of two sources; from taxes collected from within the country upon incomes, business, etc., or from taxes raised by imposing a tariff upon imports. There is no other way to raise taxes. The less taxes we have from imports, the more taxes must be raised from other sources.

Taxes upon imports may be divided into two general classes—taxes on those imports the like of which can be and are produced in this country. The United States has always gone upon the theory that the proper import tax is that levied on products the like of which are produced in this country. By such import tax, or tariff, protection is afforded home products and those working men who are employed in such industries. Other countries have adopted the other theory,—that of levying a tax upon imports the like of which are not produced at home.

A great deal is being said about the new tariff taxing the working man's breakfast table. The breakfast table is not taxed in a country which has protective tariffs. Breakfast tables are taxed in those countries which levy tariffs upon imports, the like of which they do not produce at home. No country in the world taxes the breakfast table as dearly as England.

England collects a tariff of 24 cents a pound on tea, 10 cents a pound on cocoa, 12 cents a pound on coffee and six cents a pound on sugar. Upon the four articles, all of which enter into the food upon the breakfast and dinner table, England collects a total tariff of $6.78 for every man, woman and child in the United Kingdom.

Neither tea, cocoa nor coffee are subject to tariff in this country and the tariff on sugar is only 2.2 cents.

France collects a tariff on sugar of three cents a pound, a tariff on coffee of 26 cents a pound, on cocoa 26 cents a pound and on tea 35 cents a pound. The total per capita cost to the Frenchman for these four articles is $2.77.

Canada levies a tariff of 10 cents a pound on tea, five cents a pound on coffee, two cents a pound on sugar and 35 cents ad valorem on cocoa. The total per capita cost to every Canadian for these four articles is $1.29.

WILL BE WORLD'S BIGGEST HOSPITAL

Riley Memorial Hospital Will Be Greatest One in Existence For Handling Children's Cases

NOW UNDER CONSTRUCTION

Completed Project Will Cover Area
Of 12 Acres With Group of Buildings at Cost of $2,000,000

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 26—Indiana will have one of the most complete and one of the finest children's hospitals in the entire world when the James Whitcomb Riley Hospital for Children, now under construction here, is completed, according to leading health authorities who have examined plans for the institution.

Construction work on the first unit is rapidly going forward following the ceremonies here Saturday in observance of the anniversary of the birth of the famed Hoosier poet, in whose memory the hospital is being erected.

The hospital although erected in the capital city of the state will in reality be an institution of service for every county in the state.

The completed project will cover twelve acres of ground and will be made up of a group of buildings. Surrounding the hospital will be an eighty-seven acre park, the gift of the city of Indianapolis, in which will eventually be constructed buildings for convalescent patients. Thus, in time, will be the capacity of the hospital, originally designed for the care and treatment of 350 bedridden child sufferers at one time, be considerably increased.

The hospital group will be made up of ward buildings, convalescent homes, service building and administration building. All will be of fire-proof construction, of brick with stone trimmings. Every laboratory and clinical facility will be provided. In addition to surgical and medical care of children the Riley hospital will maintain a social service department, a dental clinic, a nurse's home, a training school for child nursing, a babies feeding station and a bureau of medical and health information under one general head.

When completed the hospital will represent an expenditure of $2,000,000. This sum is being raised by popular subscription throughout the state, contributions to the hospital being made over a five year payment plan. In Indianapolis alone more than $400,000 has already been raised from among less than 200 contributors.

Federal statistics have given basis for the estimate that there are at least 10,000 children in Indiana seriously in need of medical or surgical attention.

WOMEN WILL SEEK HIGHER OFFICES

Twelve of "Fairer Sex" Successfully
Weathered Primaries and Work
For Seats in Senate

MRS. FELTON FIRST SENATOR

Republicans Have Two Women Seeking
Election in House, Democrats
3, Prohibitionists 1

(By United Press)

Washington, Oct. 26.—More women are seeking political office this year than ever before in the history of the country, according to information compiled by women's organizations here.

Twelve of the "fairer sex" successfully weathered the primaries and are seeking to defeat men for seats in the senate, the house or state governorship. Scores of others have stirred up warm political battles for men seeking minor offices.

The first woman to reach the senate is Mrs. Felton, "the grand old lady of Georgia," recently appointed to succeed the late Senator Tom Watson, until someone is elected next month to fill out his term.

Four women are running for the honor which Mrs. Felton received, while seven are seeking house seats and one wants to be governor.

The hopes of the women for senatorial seats rest largely with Mrs. Peter Oleson of Minnesota and Mrs. Ben Hooper of Wisconsin, the only women to receive senatorial nominations of one of the major political parties. Both are Democrats. Senator La Follette's unusual strength in his state, as revealed in the primary, will make it extremely difficult for Mrs. Hooper to win, but Mrs. Oleson is understood to be giving Senator Kellogg a race in Minnesota that is "worthy of any man."

The Republicans have two women seeking election to the House, while the Democrats have three, and the Prohibitionists and the Socialists one each.

Miss Alice Robertson, the only woman member of the present Congress, wants to be re-elected, and came through the primary in good shape. A list of major women candidates for high offices follows:

Pennsylvania: Rachel C. Robinson, Prohibition Party of Wilkesburg, is running for Senator Knox's seat.

Minnesota: Mrs. Peter Oleson, Democrat, is running for the senatorship against Senator Frank B. Kellogg.

Wisconsin: Mrs. Ben Hooper of Oshkosh, Democratic Party is running for Senator against Senator La Follette.

Washington: Mrs. Frances Axtell, running for the senatorship against Senator Poindexter.

Illinois: Mrs. Winnifred Mason Huck, Republican, is running for the seat held by her late father, Representative W. E. Mason.

Oklahoma: Rep. Alice Robertson, for re-election.

Missouri: Mrs. Luella St. Clair Moss, Democratic nominee from Eighth Congressional District. (President, Christian College, Columbia, Mo.)

Pennsylvania: Mrs. Ellen Duane Davis, Democrat, of Philadelphia, is

The Scotts, parents and fifteen living children, boarded a westbound train in search for enough land to provide sustenance and employment for the whole family.

"We can't carry a Sunday school class remarked the conductor to the mother as she offered one far."

"But they're my children," Mrs. Scott replied. The family Bible was produced from a load of luggage and it disclosed the remarkable lack of race suicide.

There were Ashbell, Archer and Austin, each 4½ years old;

Arthur and Arnold, each 3½.

Allen, Almon and Albion, each 2½ years.

Alfred, Albert and Adolph, each 18 months.

Abel and Abner, each six months. The mother is 30 and the father is 31. They lived near South Whitley where a humorist remarked that they started all their children's names with the letter "A" intending to go through the alphabet later.

Indianapolis, Ind.—"At one time I declined in health for four years. The local doctors did me but little good. I became awful thin and weak and had chills also pains in my limbs. A friend told my husband of the benefit his wife had derived from the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription, so I began taking it, and after the first two bottles I commenced to improve rapidly, and by the time I had taken eight bottles I was well and back to my normal weight."—Mrs. Martha Taylor, 433 N. OBITUARY

William Martin Jackson

Life is full of changes, constantly making itself felt. Lives are coming in, and lives are going out, yet, "Our loved ones are not dead: They have but passed Beyond the mists that bind us here Into the new and larger life Of that serene sphere."

William Martin Jackson was born in Washington Township, Rush County, Indiana, Dec. 23, 1851. One brief sentence closes the biography of every man. The message "He is dead," sent out from his home in Rushville in the early morning of Oct. 20, 1922, spoke volumes to the sorrowful loved ones and numberless friends. He did not live man's allotted four-score, for 70 years, 9 months, 27 days measures the length of his life.

He was the son of John R. and Mahala Hood Jackson, both natives of North Carolina. His life fit in between the period of the struggling pioneer, and the generation of more modern ideas, and while his memory was ever rich with reverence for those who had gone before, his heart was ever young with the joys of the present, and the hopes of the future.

Practically all of his life was lived on the farm where he was born. He was successfully engaged in farming and stock-raising.

"An honest man's the noblest work of God." All associated with Mr. Jackson in business bear witness that he was honest in his dealings with a keen sense of justice toward all. To honesty adds jollity, kindness, hospitality, neighborliness, friendliness, faith, sympathy, charity. Much of all these made the character of this friend we mourn.

On Sept. 7, 1871, the deceased was united in marriage to Amanda M. Sherry. After more than fifty years of happy devotion to each other, the husband has been called away at a time when the sun of their long and happy marriage relation was sinking in the Golden West. "Tho' Old Father Time with affection sublime

Had crowned them with silvery gray Their love was strong. Their hearts were young As in the years that have passed away."

To their marriage were born two sons and three daughters, all of whom survive. They are Edward, Fred, Mrs. Claudia Gray, Mrs. George Bell, and Mrs. Berl Piper. Besides the widow and children, he is survived by seven grandchildren and one great grandchild; also one brother, John Jackson of Grant County, and one sister, Mrs. Eliza Lee of Elwood. To all loved ones, he leaves a happy memory of his loving kindness and devotion. He was good to all of them. Thus has been recorded a few facts in the life of our mutual friend.

"Rest then, friend and neighbor, That we knew thee Makes our lives the more complete; And thy many acts of kindness, Make for us thy memory sweet; Rest then on; Thy course is ended; Thou hast met the setting sun; Even now the Master calleth, And He says to thee, "Well done."

MRS. HATFIELD SABINA, OHIO

In Pitiable Condition when she Began Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Sabina, Ohio.—"I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for weakness and irregularity. I was weak and nervous and could hardly stand on my feet long enough to cook a meal. I was this way for about a year and had tried several medicines and had a physician, but to no avail. My sister was taking your medicine and finally induced me to try it. I now feel fine and can do my housework without any trouble at all. You can use this letter for the sake of others if you wish."—Mrs. WELDON G. HATFIELD, R. R. 3, Sabina, Ohio.

Housewives make a great mistake in allowing themselves to become weak and nervous that it is well-nigh impossible for them to attend to their necessary household duties.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound should be taken when you first notice such symptoms as nervousness, backache, weakness and irregularity. It will help you and prevent more serious trouble. Give it a fair trial. It surely helped Mrs. Hatfield, just as it has many, many other women.

DEVELOPES TOMATO THAT RESISTS WILT

Charles Nerhob of Indianapolis Through Selection of Seed Produces Strain of Real Marvel

COOPERATING WITH PURDUE

Indianapolis, Ind., Oct. 26—Science has come to the aid of Charles Nerhob, a local vegetable gardener, in developing a strain of tomatoes that resists the wilt disease which cause such a heavy loss each year in Indiana's tomato crop. Each year until 1917 Mr. Nerhob lost many of his tomatoes from the wilt.

He answered an advertisement for one variety, the Marvel, which was supposed to be resistance to the wilt. It withstood the disease but failed to produce a uniform and easily marketed tomato. Nerhob got in touch with agricultural extension workers from Purdue University. He was advised to select the nicest tomatoes and save the seed from these. This was done and he now has developed a strain of real Marvel that resists the disease and produces a uniform crop.

Nerhob is cooperating with the Purdue extension men in developing strains of cabbage that resist yellows and other serious crop diseases that exist in the state. He has found that exist in the state. He has found principles is not at all complex but merely good business for him. He was one of several hundred such cooperators over the state who with their neighbors are reaping the benefit of the help from the extension workers.

TO OBSERVE NAVY
DAY OCTOBER 27

"Navy Day" Was Created by Navy League to Tell American People More About Their Fleet

BIRTHDAY OF ROOSEVELT

In Larger Cities Special Celebrations Are Being Planned Ranging From Parades to Mass Meetings

(By United Press)

Washington, Oct. 26—"Navy Day," created by the Navy League to tell the American people more about their fleet, which, when the Washington arms conference treaties are in full effect, will be the equal of any in the world, will be observed throughout the nation tomorrow.

The hope of the sponsors of "Navy Day," which will be celebrated this year for the first time, is that it will be given an annual place on the American calendar.

The 27th of October was selected because it is the birthday of that great American advocate of preparedness, Theodore Roosevelt.

The idea of setting aside a day for promoting a more general knowledge of the Navy, its history, its war and peace-time missions and what an adequate Navy means to the nation, originated with the Navy League. Enthusiastic endorsement was given the proposal by the naval officials, and with the sanction of President Harding and Secretary of the Navy Denby "Navy Day" was created.

Plans for the observance of the day were arranged through the Navy League, which is a civilian organization composed of prominent Americans, founded years ago for the specific purpose of fostering a better public knowledge of the American Navy.

Speakers will radio broadcast their orations from many stations to radio fans scattered through the rural districts of the great central and western states, as well as in the congested industrial districts. The five movie news reels will all make the Navy predominant in their releases for that date.

In many of the larger cities special celebrations are being planned that range from parades to mass meetings which speakers of national prominence will address. Here a banquet will be held, which President Harding and many other dignitaries have been asked to attend.

Governors of all the states have been asked by the league to issue a proclamation or in some way make a public statement asking the people of their state to co-operate. Mayors of all the larger cities of their towns to exhibit flags and arrange civic celebrations.

American naval attaches in London, Rome and Paris have been instructed to lay upon the cenotaph of the Unknown Dead a wreath, tied with a ribbon sent from here by the Navy League.

At Oyster Bay, Admiral Hillary Jones, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, will lay a wreath upon the tomb of ex-President Roosevelt.

All along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts there will be spectacular observance of the day. Vessels of the fleets have been scattered along the coasts, some of them in every harbor, and on to-morrow will dress ship and keep open house to visitors.

Priscilla Dean Again Today.

Mental and physical punches cope for the first place in "Conflict," Priscilla Dean's starring picture showing at the Princess today. The clashing of different emotions and temperaments furnishes subtle mental drama, while the big log-drive on the angry river furnishes enough excitement to satisfy the most ardent theater-goers.

An interesting bit of realism in connection with the filming of this powerful drama took place during the handling of the huge logs. Miss Dean was so wrapped up in getting her big scene across that her life was endangered at one time, and but for the heroic efforts of her leading man, Herbert Rawlinson, she would probably have been swept into the roaring river.

PIMPLY? WELL, DON'T BE

People Notice It. Drive Them Off with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

A pimply face will not embarrass you much longer if you get a package of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. The skin should begin to clear after you have taken the tablets a few nights.

Cleanse the blood, bowels and liver with Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, the successful substitute for calomel; there's no sickness or pain after taking them.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do that which calomel does, and just as effectively, but their action is gentle and safe instead of severe and irritating.

No one who takes Olive Tablets is ever cursed with a "dark brown taste," a bad breath, a dull, listless, "no good" feeling, constipation, torpid liver, bad disposition or pimply face.

Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound mixed with olive oil; you will know them by their olive color.

Dr. Edwards spent years among patients afflicted with liver and bowel complaints and Olive Tablets are the immensely effective result. Take one or two nightly for a week. See how much better you feel and look. 15c and 30c.
